

MS 57 Comintern Collection

About the Collection

This collection comprises copies of files held in the Russian Archives for Social and Political History (RGASPI), Moscow. The files pertain to the Irish Labour movement and the history of Communism in Ireland, comprising documents from the departments and standing committee of the Executive Committee Communist International (ECCI) including speeches, reports, letters, agendas, fliers, handwritten notes, lists, telegrams, minutes and posters. The papers provide considerable insight in the personalities, organisation and policy development of Irish Communism during the 1920s/ 1930s. Included in the collection are ten microfilms (representing approximately 4, 000 pages) detailing contacts between the Communist International and Irish groups between 1919 and 1943. All materials in the collection were selected and the catalogue prepared by two academics, Dr. Emmet O'Connor (Ulster University, Northern Ireland) and Dr. Finbarr McLoughlin (University of Vienna, Austria) and copied in 1995. The microfilms were deposited with Special Collections and Archives in 2011 and the paper copies were deposited in July 2012. There are 8 boxes of materials in the collection.

The microfilms have been digitized and they are available via restricted access online at Digital Special Collections & Archives.

Understanding and Referencing the Finding Aid

The major archives of the Russian Federation adopt a standardised archival system, with repositories organised by a hierarchy of subdivisions: fondi, opisi, and dela. All of the documents contained in the QUB Comintern Papers MS 57 originate in the Russian State Archive of Social-Political History.

A standard reference to a Russian source will therefore take the following form: RGASPI (Rossiiskii Gosudartsvennyi Arkhiv Sotsial'no-Politicheskoi Istorii Russian State Archive for Social and Political History) 495/218/31/1. The first three numbers refer to the fondi, opisi and dela respectively. The last number refers to the page or pages ('list') where the cited information can be found.

In the QUB Comintern papers (MS 57), the page number is usually found in the top right-hand corner of the scanned document. For further information, please consult: <https://www.ucl.ac.uk/ceelbas/understanding-structure-soviet-archives>
